WOMAN'S WORLD.

A WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN APPOINTED DISTRICT PHYSICIAN IN NEWARK.

The Best of Training—Sensible Short Skirts—A Novel Needlework Exhibit. The Wife of Naval Officers—Domestic For Ivy Poisoning.

The appointment of Dr. Marie L. Lefort as district physician by the Newark (N. J.) board of health has occasioned considerable surprise in that city. The attractive young physician is the first woman to receive any marked consideration from the board, and it was generally supposed that the men who so persistently refuse to frame an antiepxpectation ordinance at the request of women and for women would never appoint a woman to such an important post as district physician.

Nor is this the only surprise. The territory assigned Dr. Lefort is that known as "The Hill," where the population is so mixed and so thick that it is by far the most pronounced of "slum districts" of the city. To work in such a district would naturally require experience and ability, but as Dr. Lefort speaks French, English and German and has had experience in New York city she is particularly pleased to work on "The Hill."

Few young women have been so honored so early in a professional career as the doctor. She is the first woman to have been appointed resident physician at Randall's Island, and this appointment she resigned to accept that conferred by the Newark board of health. Marie Lefort was graduated from the Newark High school in 1898 and immediately after began her studies in the Woman's college of the New York Infirmary for Women and Children. She remained in the metropolis after taking her degree and had considerable experience in tenement districts.

"Oh, no, I am not a bit afraid to go out nights," she said. "A doctor's satchel is the only weapon I need carry. Emergency calls must be attended to at all hours, and I am quite accustomed to going out at any time."

The honor conferred on Dr. Lefort will probably be followed by others from local educational and philanthropic societies anxious to count among their honorary members the most successful and progressive woman at present in the public eye in Newark.—New York Herald.

The Best of Training.
Every child cannot have the best of training in the kindergarten and be schooled in the latest fads in society, but every mother can give training without which all other accomplishments will be useless. This priceless gift is a love for the good and beautiful and a good feeling toward our fellow men, which can only be attained by overcoming envy and jealousy.

Teach the child to observe the perfect and beautiful, though, like the rose, it be among thorns which are to be avoided. Teach him to command the good and look away from the evil, both in persons and objects. This will do much toward gaining for him the love and respect of others, while the habit of so doing will keep him pure at heart and free from envy and jealousy—the two greatest enemies of happiness and success.

Some months ago I met a little boy whose mother had spent her best efforts in training him in the way she thought he ought to live. She would not have suffered him to come into the house without taking off his hat or omit any other polite conventionalities. But she had neglected what the boy most needed. Instead of being careless and happy, enjoying the world as it was made for everybody, his very soul seemed almost poisoned with envy and jealousy, which kept him from appreciating anything, even the sunshine.

He seemed to have no love for anything, and could not observe or admire anything, which did not belong to him. This made him cross, selfish and almost to be despised, for every one that met him was sure to feel the worse for having met him, and this will be his lot through life. This kindly feeling toward one another and to the world is more often the result of childhood training than anything else.

Let a child have an envious, covetous mother, and the chances are she will impart it to him through his early training. When this is inculcated into the child's character, it destroys that youthful hope which is the rainbow of childhood, drawing one on through enchanted years.

Notice a child with a kindly feel-

THE ROSES OF SEATTLE.

Roses of Seattle,
That bloom in June and May,
You scatter perfume in the poet's dream,
Fair in the golden day;

You scatter waves of fragrance
On the sleeping air of night;
Your rainbow painted petals
Are the glory of the light!

Fair is Nile's storied lotus
And perfume of Caphistan,
And pleasure is the poppy's seed
That fills the soul of man.

Rare are the lights and shadows
In the pansey's purple eyes,
But the roses of Seattle—
Are the flowers of paradise.

Roses of Seattle,
That bloom in May and June,
Deep hearts of gold and crimson
That light the summer noon;

The cottage of the lowly
You paint with God's own plan;

In the mansion of the lordly
You shame the art of man!

I hold them fast in memory
Wherever I may roam,

These blossoms from the garden
Of the gods, dropped down from home.

The cruel years take from us

What years cannot restore,

But the roses of Seattle—

They bloom forevermore!

Eliza Achard Connor in Seattle Post-Intelligencer

When the women of New York city recently held a patriotic meeting for the purpose of boycotting French goods several of the leading modistes signed a contract not to import any more Paris gowns for two years. This will be a loss of just $8,000,000 to Parisians.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore recently gave a lecture at West Dennis, Mass. People came from 10 and 15 miles and crowded the church to the doors. A correspondent of Zion's Herald writes, Received. — That the people of the Island of Cuba are and ought to be free and independent."

THE TERMS OF PEACE.

Though the text of the term of peace proposed by the President has not been given to the public, it is announced that Spain is required to relinquish all claims of sovereignty over the Island of Cuba and to cede the Island of Porto Rico and one of the Ladrone Islands to the United States. The United States are to occupy and hold the city and the harbor of Manila, pending the conclusion of a treaty of peace, which shall determine the disposition of the Philippines.

These terms, of course, are not satisfactory to Spain, but they have to be accepted or the war will be continued and a fleet sent to Spain to bombard its seaports.

It has been evident to almost every body, not excepting intelligent Spaniards, from the moment the first shot was fired, that Spanish rule in the West Indies would end with the war Spain could not subjugate the insurgents in Cuba and a nation which could not do that could not expect to cope successfully with the United States. Porto Rico, which, like Cuba, has an aggressive insurgent element, which Spain found it difficult to restrain, was certain to be invaded and occupied by United States' troops. The destruction of Oviedo's fleet made this a comparatively easy task, and once the Stars and Stripes floated over the island, the flag was never to be lowered, as there was no promise, express or implied, in the case of Cuba, to establish an independent government on that island. Spain, therefore, from the moment hostilities began, must have realized that its colonies in the West Indies were lost to it forever.

But if Spain accepts our preliminary terms, and agrees to relinquish its claims to Cuba and Porto Rico, it does not follow that the war will end. The indications are that the insurgents in the Philippines will cause more trouble to the United States than the Spaniards. While they are a barbarous, poorly armed people, there are several millions of them and late reports say they are not disposed to be friendly with the United States' troops. Their leader, Aguinaldo, has proclaimed himself Dictator of the Islands, and it is becoming apparent that his pride will have to be humbled by disarming and dispersing his followers before peace is restored to the islands. General Merritt, who is now at Manila, telegraphed the War Department that 5,000 troops will be required to establish and maintain order in the Philippines. The Spanish forces at Manila express a willingness to surrender whether peace is declared or not, but the natives are arrogant and will have to be forced into submission. General Merritt, with the assistance of Admiral Dewey's fleet, can compel the Spaniards to surrender with his present force, but he wants 3,000 more men to subjugate the natives.

It looks at present that the cessation of hostilities depends as much upon the caprices of Aguinaldo, as upon the Spanish Government. War may cease in Cuba and Porto Rico within a week, but it may be prolonged in the Philippines for months.

CONDENSED WAR NOTES.

The German cruiser Geier has arrived at Havana from Vera Cruz, Mexico. She had on board a prominent German, Herr Gustav Beck, who is well known in Havana business and other circles. As the Geier passed Cabanas Fortress it played a German march.

During the evening of Saturday last only one ship was in sight from Manzanillo. It is announced from the Palace that on Sunday morning just the plantation of Preciada, province of Manzanillo, was attacked by a force of infantry and cavalry under the American flag. It is added that a squadron of Spanish cavalry from the plantation of Do Ross "assisted" in "routing the Americans," who are said to have left ten men killed on the field. The Spaniards, according to the report, had two men badly wounded.

A Washington special says: In the provinces of Havana and Manzanillo there have been several skirmishes between Spanish forces and bands of insurgents. An insurgent force, under the leadership of Camilo, opened fire on Thursday last on San Nicolas, but was seemingly repulsed by the garrison after a short period of firing.

The insurgents are also announced to have attacked Gamaraza, defended by a fort, in the province of Santa Clara, for the purpose of capturing cattle which were pasturing there.

The Spanish version of the affair says the insurgents were driven off after an exchange of shots which lasted ten minutes.

Not only the Court, Dubost and political men of the capitol but the Madrid public as well, are unmistakably in favor of peace at any price. It is believed that any apparent opposition to the terms arranged at Washington will be merely for the sake of appearance, nothing more. Grave anxiety is felt, however, as to the attitude of the army and the feeling in the provinces. Several regiments in the Madrid garrison are known to be hostile to the Government and the dynasty, but it is hoped that any open action can be restrained until after the conclusion of peace.

General Polavieja has so far succeeded in curbing military jingoism by his strong personal influence, but that peace may be the signal for internal disorders is a peril which Sagasta is now trying to avert.

The Spanish commander who evacuated Ponce Porto Rico is prisoner at San Juan and will be tried for cowardice and probably executed.

The Spaniards are expected to make their first stand in Porto Rico about 35 miles from Ponce, where two or three thousand Spanish regulars are entrenched. The American troops will not advance until the arrival of transports which are expected hourly.

The peace proposals are under consideration by the Madrid Cabinet, but no definite decision has been arrived at. The Cabinet at Washington believes that the reply of Spain will be received before Saturday afternoon.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt wrote to Secretary Alger from Santiago asking that the Department send regulars and cavalry, and compare the State troops and volunteers as far below the others named. In other words claiming that 4,000 regulars would be worth 10,000 National Guardsmen. Secretary Alger cut the doubtful Colonels off with the official reply, that invasions so imminent were unnecessary and that the others were no better than the volunteers and all had done well.

General Shafter received a cable message from Secretary Alger ordering him to move his army into the interior, as a result the officers held a conference and immediately petitioned General Shafter to insist upon the removal of the army north at least within two weeks. The officers claim that the ravages of fever and other disease will impair the efficiency of the army and that it is unable to move into the interior and must be removed or perish. They are supported by the opinion of the Medical Staff.

The Secretary of War has ordered General Shafter's troops relieved from duty in Santiago as fast as transportation can be provided.

Getting Up.

The Duke of Wellington slept on an iron camp bedstead 18 inches wide and argued that "when a man wants to turn over it is time to turn out." Edward Everett Hale quotes this remark of the duke in the "Ten Times One Record" and takes issue with him. "The principle is well enough," says Dr. Hale, "but I think the detail is wrong. Sleep is far too important to be made uncomfortable." Dr. Hale goes on to tell of various ingenious devices for automatically waking a sleeper. A friend of his fixed his alarm so that at the foreordained moment the bedclothes were dragged from the bed. The same gentleman found another contrivance which worked better. "The alarm struck a match, which lighted the lamp which boiled the water for Rossiter's shaving. If Rossiter staid in bed too long, the water boiled over upon his razor and clean shirt and the prayer book his mother gave him and Coleridge's autograph and his open pocketbook and all the other precious things he could put in a basin underneath when he went to bed; so he had to get up before that moment came."

A Generous Admission.

The London Graphic tells the following story about Hans Richter in an article on conductors:

Dr. Richter's popularity with his men is easily intelligible, for while nothing escapes his argus-eyed vigilance he always recognizes and acknowledges good work. A few years ago, while he was conducting—from memory, as usual—one of Brahms' overtures at St. James' Hall, "a strange thing happened," as Mr. Haggard used to say. Band and conductor lost touch for several bars, and when the piece was ended Dr. Richter signaled to the orchestra to play the overture again from the beginning. This time everything went without a hitch, and at the close Dr. Richter turned round, and addressing the audience said, "Ladies and gentlemen, the mistake was mine, not the orchestra's," a generous admission which provoked a salvo of applause.

Carlyle's Exemption.

Joachim, the great violinist, was introduced to Carlyle by a mutual friend. The sage was about to take his morning walk, and he asked Joachim to accompany him. During a very long walk in Hyde Park Carlyle kept the conversation running on Germany and its great men—the Fredericks, Moltko and Bismarck—until at last Joachim thought it was his turn to take a lead, and he started with the inquiry, "Do you know Sternberg Bennett?"

"No," was the reply, and, after a pause, "I don't care generally for musicians; they are an empty, windbaggy sort of people."

Playing Gooseberry.

Playing gooseberry or "to play gooseberry" is common enough in connection with sweethearts. A lad arranges a walk with a lad, but for some reason she does not care to go alone, so she takes a friend, another girl, and the friend "plays gooseberry." Sometimes the girl who is invited to share the walk refuses, saying, "Nay, I'm not going to play gooseberry." The girls speak of the lad in this connection as "gooseberry fool." By the way, green gooseberry stewed with a little water, mashed, and sugar added, constitute "gooseberry fool." Notes and Queries.

The Water Question May be Kept in Court for a Generation.

Editor JOURNAL.—At the general election in 1896, in conformity with an Act of the Legislature, the following propositions were submitted to the electors of Reno:

First—Shall Reno be incorporated? Second—Shall Reno acquire and operate a municipal water works?

Third—Shall Reno acquire and operate a municipal light plant?

The electors of Reno voted in favor of each and all of these propositions by decisive majorities, and the Legislature of 1897, in conformity with the express wish of the citizens, passed an act incorporating the City of Reno and providing for the erection of water works and the electric light works at a cost not exceeding $150,000.

The constitutionality of the act was questioned, but the Supreme Court unanimously concurring in the opinion that the act is constitutional. The City Council, upon being assured of the constitutionality of the act, submitted, in accordance with the provisions of the act, to the electors of the City of Reno at a special election in October, 1897, the following propositions:

First—Shall Reno be bonded in the sum of $150,000 for the purpose of providing water and erecting water works?

Second—Shall such bonds be payable in equal annual installments between and including the sixth and twentieth years from their date of issuance, together with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable annually at their maturity, at the office of the City Treasurer of Reno?

Third—Shall Reno be bonded in the sum of $20,000, for the purpose of establishing an electric light plant?

Fourth—Shall such bonds be payable in equal annual installments between and including the sixth and twentieth years from their date of issuance, together with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable annually at their maturity at the office of the City Treasurer of Reno?

The electors of Reno by a very large majority voted in favor of all the propositions and the City Council advised as the law provides for proposals with plans and specifications to construct a water system and electric light plant for the City of Reno.

In response to this advertisement, which embodied the language of the statute, four proposals were received for the construction of the water works, one of which was accepted by the City Council, as was also a proposal to construct an electric light plant.

Now the question has again been taken to the Courts and the District Court decides that the plaintiff and defendant are entitled to a decree permanently enjoining and restraining the defendants as the City Council from executing or entering into the proposed contracts for constructing a water system and electric light plant for the City of Reno.

It is suggested that the Board of Health take such action as to require the various ditches west of town to be closed down simultaneously at least once a week for from twelve to twenty-four hours, so that the river may be flushed and cleaned. Such an arrangement could be made with the farmers as well as other consumers and the full flow of water be turned in the river.

HEALTH AUTHORITIES SHOULD ACT.

The River Bed From Below Reno to Lake Tahoe is not much. Should be flushed immediately.

A gentleman who within the past two weeks has had occasion to traverse the Truckee river from the State Line to Laramarino's ranch east of Vista reports to the JOURNAL a condition that should receive the immediate attention of the Board of Health or other authorities.

From a mile east of Reno to the mouth of the canyon, there are great pools of stagnant water and festering filth, thousands of decaying, whitish, in fact wagon loads of them; the putrid masses causing a stench that is almost unbearable. It is supposed that the low stage of water and excessive heat is the direct cause of this slaughter of fish, but an examination of many of them which still showed signs of life developed in some instances the fact that a parasite or fungus growth on some part of the body was the cause, and in others large sores under the fins and on the sides of the fish indicated the cause of death. It is believed that the accumulation of filth, owing to the lack of water to run off, has poisoned the fish or occasioned a disease that is not only fatal to the whitish but will have more or less effect upon the trout. The drain ditches in the lower part of the valley add little to the volume of water and what is added is filled with slime and silt which injures instead of improves what little flow there is in the river.

It is suggested that the Board of Health take such action as to require the various ditches west of town to be closed down simultaneously at least once a week for from twelve to twenty-four hours, so that the river may be flushed and cleaned. Such an arrangement could be made with the farmers as well as other consumers and the full flow of water be turned in the river.

S., your and hereby required to appear in action commenced against you as defendant by John Murray as plaintiff in the Second Judicial District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for the County of Washoe, to answer the状 on the 28th day of August, 1898, to the service on you of this summons (exclusive of day of service) if served on said county, or twenty days if served out of said county, or within the time of trial, in all other cases, for days; or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint.
